Liam McGowan
About Me

My name is Liam McGowan, I currently attend Newburgh Free Academy North as a freshmen. I am in my first year of a program called Excelsior that has a goal of giving their students enough experience and professional skills to achieve greater goals, and if i succeed i will graduate high school with an associate's degree in either cyber security or networking. This will hopefully give me a head start in my career as well as my life in general. This program is also in partnership with SUNY orange college which i hope to attend shortly after graduating, with a goal of receiving a bachelors or masters degree. I created this website to give you more insight on who I am, and what I do.
